The petition was presented in the House of Commons on June 16 with three party support from Gordon Fairweather (PC), Hon. Robert Stanbury (LIB), and Cyril Symes (NDP). A delegation then met with the conservative and NDP caucus and with Secretary of State Hugh Faulkner to seek their support for an indigenous Canadian film industry. At a press conference which followed statements were read on behalf of Joe Clark and Ed Broadbent, leaders of the Conservative and NDP parties respectively, which committed their parties to support of the goals set out in the petition. The event received national press coverage.

The petition represented the largest film industry consensus ever taken to Ottawa. Because of the support behind the petition – your support – it was an important statement with a message which could not be ignored.

YOUR CONTINUING SUPPORT REMAINS AS IMPORTANT AS IT WAS ON JUNE 16. IF YOU DON'T ALREADY BELONG JOIN CCFM AND ADD YOUR VOICE TO THE 8,000 SPEAKING ON BEHALF OF OUR OWN INDUSTRY. MEMBERSHIPS ARE $10. THE MEMBERSHIP FORM IS ON THE BACK COVER. SEND IT TODAY.

CRISIS IN CANADIAN BROADCASTING

AUGUST 10, 11 & 12, 1976

St. Mary's University
Halifax, Nova Scotia

The conference will explore the economics and problems of financing the broadcasting system, the inter-relationships of cable, Pay TV and conventional broadcasting services, the role of common carriers, the programming dilemma, repatriation of the CBC and options for an integrated solution which may lead to a restructuring of the Canadian broadcasting system.

The twenty papers to be presented and discussed address these issues from the perspectives of the broadcaster, cablecaster, economist, regulator and communications specialist.

In addition to those papers which specifically examine proposals for development of a Canadian Pay TV Service, time has been allotted for a panel discussion of the problems and complexities which this new service will present. Chairing this discussion will be John Hylton, Commissioner of the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission.

Attendance will be limited to 200 participants. For information on the conference programme, contact the
